

Hiking with Zoey

Hello. My name is Zoey. I live in Columbia and SO love hiking the trails in Maryland. Today is Monday...exploring day!...and one of my favorite days. On Mondays, as often as possible, we (my human hiking pal and I) try a new place for hiking. I thought I'd keep a journal of my of my travels and share it with you so you could enjoy the hikes with me. Well, sort of... At least you'll get a taste of the fun we had. Then you could go do it with your own hiking buddies! Most of our hikes will be very close. All will be within an hour or two drive. Off we go!

Today we go to Savage Park! This is one of my favorite hikes since it is a short drive from home and because it has three wooded trails running along the rivers, giving me many safe opportunities to swim! Tall, arching trees cover the wide, trodden paths, shading us in the warm months making it a great hike to escape the heat. During the colder months, the leaves fall and create a soft carpet under our feet. After a rain, muddy, some of seems to city flowing you're couple of the trails can get which I don't mind, but my humans do! It never get crowded and the noises are distant, hushed by the birds, the waters and wind through the trees. You'll forget still right in Columbia. Hiking is easy, with only a mildly challenging inclines.

Wincopin Neck Access Park

Information for Humans

Location

SE Columbia. On Vollmerhausen Rd, less than .5 miles south of intersection with Savage Guilford Rd.

Trails

Red 1.5 miles (moderate) (This is trail you take from parking lot)

Green 1.5 miles (easy)

Yellow .25 miles (moderate/easy)

Parking

On Vollmerhausen Rd

Zoey's Ratings

